MEDICINAL.

FOR BLOOD—AND SKIN!

A. B. C. CHEMICAL CO.,
Richmond, Va.
Having for a long time suffered from the effects of a horrible blood trouble, and after resorting to medical skill and other remedies without benefit, I tried "A. B. C. Chemical Co.'s Blood Purifier and Skin Tonic," and it has entirely restored me, and it affords me pleasure to attest its virtues. It is certainly a very great tonic and alterative, and I recommend it to all suffering from blood trouble, to try it.

A Little Girl's Visit to the Battle Fields of

To the Editor of the Alexandria Gazette:

If you will allow me a little space in your good paper I will give you a short account of my visit over the historical place, where so many good men have lost their lives.

Just think readers, of the men that started out in the army fighting with their fellow citizens that have been returned to their homes on earth, but we hope to their homes in heaven, where there will be no more sorrow.

During the past summer I visited the place I have just mentioned above, in company with some of my friends. I stood upon the very spot where General Stonewall Jackson and army fell back and rested over one night.

Since the war a handsome house has been built on the battle field and inhabited by some of the most intimate friends of mine; and it was in the yard of that house that I stood upon the resting place of that famous General and his army.

The place is named "Jackson's Rest," in his honor.
Just to think that 25 years have passed since Gen. Robert E. Lee, the greatest General next to Washington, surrendered his army at Appomattox Court House near the James river in Virginia.

I am all new to me as I study history and study about so many that have not lived to tell the rising generation of that battle, not only to the rest of the world.

Of course, you could not expect me to tell you anything about the war except what I have studied in history, because I am only a school-girl about 14 years old. One of the inmates of the new house found a silver ball-doll under a tree not long ago supposed to have been lost by some of the men in time of the war. It was very little worn; only had a slight cut across it and was bent a little. Except that, it was as good as new.

I saw some of the old cannons and cannon balls that had been used in the battle.
I also visited the Heary house—not the old one that stood in time of the war, but a new one that has been erected since. The old one was so shattered by cannon-balls that it had to be taken down. At one end of the house stands an old stump of a tree that is filled with balls. And in the back yard stands a monument. The grave of old Mr.
Henry is in the front yard. She was struck by one of the cannon balls and killed, in the 84th year of her age. Her daughter had died since and is buried by her mother.

The house is inhabited by her son and his nephew. In the house is seen pictures of all of the southern generals and their men, and also the picture of Mrs.
Henry's husband which has been taken a hundred years. Mr. Henry took a great deal of pleasure in showing us the different things, and I extend many thanks for his kindness. I realize, in time there will be one of the most handsome monuments erected on that battle field that has been known in America and perhaps in the world; we do not know how soon it will be; it may not occur in our life time, but yet it will be.

Every day people visit that battle field from different parts of the United States. I could tell you a great deal more, but my space will not allow me, and consequently will close. Respectfully,

MATTIE R. FISH
Loudoun county, Oct. 28.

BALLOAST WITH AIR AND WATER.—The steam yacht F. L. Norton left Wilmington, Del., on Tuesday, and reached Norton's ship yard, at Perth Amboy, Thursday.

Her owner, Capt. Frances L. Norton of the Norton Naval Construction and Ship Building Company, expects to go with his wife in the yacht to the Bermudas and Azores, and finally to Toulon, France, this winter. Before then, however, there will be a rough weather government inspection by the Board upon engaged with the cruiser Philadelphia. The Norton was built for a sailing vessel, but has recently been furnished with steam power. She will be used to test an invention which, it is said, assures safety in all sorts of weather. Beneath the hull are cumbers (six on each side), that run almost the entire length, are twice water tanks. The tanks communicate with the water beneath by openings in the hull. A part of each tank above the water is occupied by compressed air, which, acting as a cushion, keeps the yacht on an even keel and prevents rolling. A similarly built sailing yacht was favorably reported on by a French government board of survey Superintendent Nettleton of Norton's ship-yard says this ballast plan can be used on the big ocean racers. So sea-sickness may yet be made a thing of the past. Capt. Norton is well remembered here; he had his ship yard in this city where he built some of the patent boats.
